

How old do you have to be to wear contact lenses?

Even pre-teens as young as 11 were shown to be responsible enough for contacts, according to a 3-year study by a leading school of Optometry. This age group demonstrated confidence in their ability to follow doctors instructions on wearing and caring for contact lenses.